

TEMPERANCE UNION HAS A BUSY DAY

Number of Interesting Addresses Are Delivered During the Sessions.

GOLD MEDAL CONTEST IS HELD IN EVENING

Miss Alberta McCann's "The Old Violin" Is Awarded the First Prize.

The eighteenth annual convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union, the opening session of which was held Thursday evening, was continued at the Central Christian church Friday, the morning meeting beginning at 9:30 o'clock with State President Mrs. E. E. Shepard presiding. The day's programme was opened with music, after which Miss Grace Nickerson of Provo led a brief devotional service.

Mrs. Anna Baker Ellis, a W. C. T. U. worker of Idaho, who is visiting friends here, was present and gave an interesting talk on the work of the organization in that state. The Rev. Mrs. Mary Sibbitt, who is in charge of the national department of work among soldiers and sailors, and who was the principal speaker at the opening session of the conference Thursday evening, also delivered a short address. Miss Josephine Kellogg conducted a short Bible reading service. She delivered a short discourse on "Love," basing her remarks on "Tennyson's two poems, 'In Memoriam' and 'The Princess'."

Perhaps the main feature of the morning session was the president's report. Mrs. Shepard declared that the year which had just ended had been one of the most delightful years of her experience. In temperance work, "There has been a marked growth in all of the unions," she declared, "but what seems far better still, there has been a strong and growing sentiment in favor of temperance. Continuing, she said:

"During the past year I have traveled 550 miles in Utah and Idaho. I have delivered 116 addresses to the public, twenty-six to school children and thirteen to Sabbath schools and had twenty-eight purity meetings for women and twelve for men. I have attended five state executive meetings of the Anti-Saloon league and presented eleven medals at our contests. I have written 500 letters and eighty-two postal card notices. In addition to sending out large quantities of temperance literature, I have received in collections $18.55, and my routine expenses have been $57.30, thus leaving a balance owing me of $21.25. 'May the coming year,' she concluded, 'be fraught with blessings for our cause, as well as for each individual member who is praying and working for the ultimate overthrow of the death-dealing liquor traffic.'

Mrs. Young is heard.

Mrs. A. L. Young of the Juvenile court read an interesting paper, in which she urged the W. C. T. U. to aid the court in its work for civic purity against the social evil. She recommended detention homes for girls, and every woman, she declared, should make it her business to help secure such laws for the juvenile court as those which are at present in force. After a number of interesting minutes from the visiting delegates from the various cities and towns of the states, the meeting proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing year. The result of the election follows:

President—Mrs. E. E. Shepard of Salt Lake City.

First vice-president—Mrs. H. W. Smith of Salt Lake City.

Second vice-president—Mrs. Mary M. Boyden of Provo.

Corresponding secretary—Miss Leota S. Kennedy of Ogden.

Recording secretary—Mrs. Mary B. Sumner of Salt Lake City.

Assistant recording secretary—Mrs. C. S. Newton, Springville.

Treasurer—Mrs. T. C. Chaney, Salt Lake City.

Secretary of L. T. L.—Mrs. Emma P. Pratt, of Provo.

The morning session was closed with prayer by Mrs. Robert Wilcox.

The afternoon session was largely taken up with reports from the superintendents of the various branches of the work. The reports were as follows: Mrs. T. C. Chaney, Salt Lake City; Mrs. Charles Newton, work among soldiers, Mrs. C. A. Walker, press, Miss L. S. Kennedy, flower mission, Mrs. T. C. Chaney, scientific temperance, Miss J. Simons, Sabbath observance, Miss L. Frost, mercy, Mrs. T. D. Pitt, prisons and jails, Miss Josephine Kellogg, medical contests, Mrs. Leola Montgomery, L. T. L., Mrs. Emma P. Pratt.

The main feature of the afternoon was an address by the Rev. Louis Fuller, president of the local Anti-Saloon league. He took for his text, "The Old Violin."

"The Women's Christian Temperance union," said the Rev. Mr. Fuller, "has done more for the cause than any other organization up to the time of the Anti-Saloon league." "In the course of his remarks the Rev. Mr. Fuller strongly condemned any combination between the saloon element and political parties, and urged the women to vote for only such men for public office as stand for local option."

Better vote for a good man in the other party," he said. "I have had one in my own town. The Anti-Saloon league is the tool of no political party and we stand for one thing, first, last and all the time—the ultimate suppression of the liquor traffic."

"We must lay away political and sectarian differences," he said, "in conclusion, and all pull together and prepare the way for that wave of prohibition which is now sweeping the country from center to circumference."

Mrs. A. H. Berkholder read a forceful and impressive paper on "The Rights of a Child." She said that the child should be made to obey and advocated kind but firm punishment, providing the parents are just.

Miss Josephine Kellogg was elected as delegate to the national convention of the W. C. T. U. and the superintendents of departments were appointed as follows: Literature, Miss Freda Dressel, Ogden; Sabbath observance, Miss Louisa Frost, Ephraim; moral education, Mrs. A. H. Berkholder, Springville; prisons and jails, Miss Josephine Kellogg, Provo; anti-narcotics, Mrs. Lewis A. Fuller, medical contests, Mrs. Leola Montgomery, Salt Lake City; Sabbath school, Mrs. Nickerson, Sandy; press, Miss Leola Kennedy, Ogden; mercy, Mrs. Tom D. Pitt, Salt Lake City; work among soldiers, Mrs. L. M. Snaab, Salt Lake City; flower missions, Mrs. Anna Shaw, Ogden.

Committee Reports.

The committee on resolutions, which was appointed at the opening session Thursday night, filed its report. The conclusion of the afternoon session yesterday, and it was ratified by the convention in the evening. The report embraced resolutions thanking God for the victories that are constantly crowning the fight, thanking the city for the honor that has been extended to the organization during the past year. The resolutions also heartily commended the efforts which are being made by the juvenile court in behalf of the youth.

The convention closed in the evening with the first grand gold medal contest ever held in Utah. Five contestants competed for the medal, namely: Miss Norma Martin, Miss Ruby Lane, Miss Lily King, Miss Alberta McCann and Miss Bessie Young. Each of the contestants had pre-

After much discussion and due consideration the medal was finally awarded to Miss McCann, who recited "The Old Violin." Miss Lang, who recited "A Daughter's Sacrifice," was declared second best. Miss Martin recited "Courage and Candor," Bessie Young, "Volunteers Organized," and Miss King, "The American Bluebird and Fatima."

The contest was one of the best ever heard in this city and the young contestants certainly did themselves justice. Each girl was attired in a white gown, with a large bow of white ribbon in her hair. Miss Grace Nickerson, the Rev. Mrs. Mary Sibbitt and E. E. Shepard acted as judges. The presentation was made by the Rev. Mrs. Sibbitt. She also pronounced the benediction and dismissed the convention.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

High school recruits are being pushed rapidly in the front of the manual of arms.

The instruction with the rifle is very important, as every small detail must be plainly put before the eyes.

Friday afternoon movement by companies with the rifle greatly pleased Captain Webb, and the entire battalion made a creditable showing under his direction.

He stated that if his old men are exceptionally well drilled they will greatly aid the progress of the companies, after they have been completely organized, as the recruits will be able to do much better work with the old men.

number over 100, and when they are present on the parade ground the line of formation extends the entire length of the campus. The appointment of all sergeants was announced to the battalions as follows: Company A, Jack Atkins, Stuart Jennings, Harold Heruett, and Vernon Thieriot; company B, Frank Caffy, Stanley Allen, Marion Chandler and Harvey Kay; company C, Francis Wetzel, De Grant, Dally, Leon Peters and Robert Gevedige; company D, Houston Newton, John Mosler and Romney Braine. The remaining appointments are those of corporals and the non-commissioned staff, and will be announced next week.

The organization of class football teams is well under way, as during the past week the three upper classes have had teams out on the campus. The freshmen and expect to form a team. The upper classes have offered to help in the organization of a freshman team, so that every class will have a team to contest for the trophy. Should they organize it would help in their training in class spirit and interest. It would be an important step, as a lively freshman class would help in the organization. During the coming week there will be several scrimmage games with the big team.

GREEN HORSES ARE NOW BEING TRAINED

The work of breaking the new horses for the fire department was recently completed by Chief of Fire Department, Gloré, has begun. For some time yet the horses will be drilled only once or twice a day, they being taken from their stalls on the stroke of a gong, and until they learn that when the bell strikes they are to jump under the harness.

It takes a number of weeks to thoroughly train the horses, so with six new ones in the fire department, it will be some time before they are ready for service. Four at fire headquarters, the firemen will be kept busy.

NO GUSHER

But Tells Facts About Postum.

"We have used Postum for the past eight years," writes a Wis. lady, "and drink it three times a day. We never tire of it."

For several years I could scarcely eat anything on account of dyspepsia, bloating after meals, palpitation, sick headache—in fact was in such misery and distress I tried living on hot water and toast for nearly a year.

I had quit coffee, the cause of my trouble, and was using hot water, but this was not nourishing.

After I began drinking it and my ailments disappeared, and now I can eat anything I want without trouble.

My parents and husband had about the same experience. Mother would often suffer after eating, while yet drinking coffee. My husband was a great coffee drinker and suffered from indigestion and headache.

After he stopped coffee and began Postum both ailments left him. He will not drink anything else now and we have it three times a day. I could write more but am no gusher—only state plain facts.

ELIA BRANCH, a baker at 111 East First street, had a bogus check worked on him Friday morning by a slick stranger, who gave the name of G. J. Grenmont, and induced the check with the same name. It was a check of Harris Furniture company, which is in a cell at the county jail awaiting arrest. The matter was reported to the police as soon as the bank refused to honor the check.

ELIA BRANCH, a colored woman, arrested Thursday night by Deputy Sheriff Russell for street walking, is still confined in a cell at the county jail awaiting arraignment on the charge of soliciting. The Branch woman has quite a police record in this city. She was also the woman who was shot in a row in a hotel on Victoria alley, her assailant, Mary Jarrel, being discharged from Judge Dill's court for lack of evidence to convict.

TAFT IN DENVER

Dolliver complimented his audience on "this splendid section of Wyoming," and got a merry ha-ha from his hearers, who told him he was in Nebraska.

A committee representing the state of Wyoming boarded the train at Pine Bluffs, consisting of Governor Brooks, Senators Warren Clark and C. W. Burke and nominee for governor. When Cheyenne was reached, shortly after 3 o'clock, the candidate was taken in an automobile direct to the local theater, where he was packed from the pit to the roof.

The candidate had three-quarters of an hour, and began by saying he was going to divide his time with Senator Dolliver, because the Senator was at his very best when talking to women, and he was going to do the same.

Then Mr. Taft proceeded to use up every minute of the time allotted for both speakers. In a box as one of his auditors was Senator Gore of Oklahoma, who spoke for the Republicans. Mr. Taft made a most emphatic denial of Mr. Bryan's assertion that Republican votes helped to pass through the Senate ten years ago the bill requiring jury trial between a plaintiff and a court and the enforcement of its final decree.

Contradicts Bryan.

"Mr. Bryan says that Republican Senators voted for that bill," said Judge Taft. "I deny it. The record does not show it and he cannot prove it."

Speaking of the labor plank in the Democratic platform in his argument against intervening jury trials, Mr. Taft paid his respects to Governor Haskell. He said:

"The man who passed that very resolution in the platform, Governor Haskell, has been ten or twelve times a defendant in prosecutions of that sort with reference to the violations of the orders of courts, and he has to pay $22,000 in New York in the federal court to purge himself of that very contempt, and if you are going to introduce a jury trial every time you will weaken the power of the courts so that they will be a laughing stock. I appeal to intelligent workmen to know whether they desire that the courts, upon which our whole civilization exists, shall be weakened merely in order to save the law."

He introduced in a certain class of cases, when we have gotten along thus far for three hundred years without such an intervention between a lawful order of the court and its enforcement.

Escort to Denver.

The Taft special was escorted into Denver tonight from Cheyenne by a committee consisting of Jesse McDonald, candidate for governor; Thomas E. Walsh, national committeeman; Representative Benjamin Harrison, governor of E. R. Harper, State Chairman John Vivian and James C. Bouger, candidate for Congress.

At Greeley, on the route from Cheyenne to Denver, an immense crowd had assembled, and here Mr. Taft varied his usual line of argument to place himself on record regarding the beet sugar industry, which thrives around Greeley. He said:

"I have been talking half across the continent, and I left most of my voice in the East. But I am glad to be able to express my gratitude to the people of Greeley for their cordial reception. I understand you are interested here a good deal in beet sugar, and I also understand that some people have intimated that I was against beet sugar. I want to say that I am not. I want to say that I would not injure the beet industry in any way, and the Republican platform pledges the Republican party to take no action which will not leave adequate protection for the beet sugar interests. But I call your attention to the fact that sugar is a trust-made product, and that if Mr. Bryan becomes president and has control of the legislation he proposes to put sugar on the free list, because it is a trust-made product. Now that is the character of remedy that he proposes to do to the trusts. We say to regulate the trusts, to stamp out their evil, but not to punish the innocent with the guilty—no, on the order to bring the sugar trust within the law, to destroy the farmers who raise beet sugar, the men who work in the beet sugar factories and the innocent beet sugar producers."

After the Denver meeting Mr. Taft

thorized by congress, and that the states should be urged to cooperation with the nation for the preservation and enlargement of our forest resources by the adoption of uniform forest laws, and that forestry, irrigation, drainage, flood protection, water storage and river regulation, and control for navigation and water power should be regarded as one great inter-related subject in all legislative and executive policies.

"That power made available by national irrigation works, when once applied by pumping or duly connected with irrigation, should be regarded as appurtenant to the land, and we urge the enactment of laws to this end."

The resolutions give sweeping endorsement to the work of the reclamation service, the forest service and the geological survey, and urge on Congress continued support and increased appropriations for all of these bureaus; urge the repeal of the timber and stone act, "to the end that the accumulation of the public timber lands in the hands of a few great corporations may be arrested"; urge the speedy creation of the Southern Appalachian and White Mountain National forests; ask Congress for an adequate appropriation for the use of the hydrographic division of the geological survey to determine by experiment and measurement and observation the practical effects of grazing and lumbering on the supply of water for irrigation and on the erosion of the soil, and that such investigation extend over the entire watershed, both in and out of the National forests, and that such investigation be prosecuted simultaneously throughout all states and territories of the arid and semi-arid West.

Oppose Free Sugar.

A strong resolution against free sugar is included, also resolutions for the creation of immigration bureaus by the western states and territories; requesting co-operation with the national conservation commission, a conservation committee of the irrigation congress being authorized; urging that the Carey act be amended to the territories; endorsing the movement to hold a session of the congress in Washington in 1910, to be known as an International Congress on Irrigation, and making appropriations from the state and federal governments for this congress; and authorizing the present congress to appoint a committee of five, to be known as the congressional committee, charged with the duty of urging the recommendations of the organization of the congress.

A separate resolution was adopted providing for the election of a board of governors consisting of the chairman and four other members of the executive committee and the president and congress, with full authority to act for the committee in all matters in which it has authority under the constitution, the aim being to secure a compact organization which will allow a continued activity between sessions of the congress.

International Plan.

A report of the special committee, appointed at Sacramento, consisting of Clifford Pinchot, F. H. Newell, F. B. Bard of California, P. J. Kiesel of Utah and George I. Barstow of Texas, to investigate the feasibility of holding an international congress on irrigation, recommended that the committee of five to arrange for the holding of such a congress either in Washington or at the capital of one of the Latin American republics within the next two or three years, the committee to report to the seventeenth congress.

Mr. Hearst was the donor of several handsome trophies to the industrial exposition, held in connection with the congress, and was given an ovation when he was introduced.

Mr. Hearst said:

"My attention has not been directed to water so much lately as oil—Standard Oil—and I have no letters which refer to irrigation congresses."

This was his only reference to politics, the rest of the speech being devoted to a general discussion of irrigation and its benefits.

Mr. Higen was introduced and spoke for a few minutes of the work of the congress, making no reference to politics.
